Llywodraeth Cymru
Welsh Government

About us

Llais has been set up by the Welsh Government.

It is our job to make sure people in Wales can have a say about their:

- health services
- and social care services.

People should get these services in a way that works best for them.

We are independent. This means we are not influenced or controlled by government.

This booklet tells you about our complaints advocacy service. This service can help you complain about NHS services or social services.

About our complaints advocacy service

Advocacy is when someone helps you and speaks up for you. They help you say what you want to say. And make sure you are listened to.

An advocate is the person who speaks up for you.

Our complaints advocates are trained to deal with your complaints.

We provide information in a way that suits you. For example, in different languages, large print, easy read and audio .

We can offer interpreters if you need one.

Let us know what you need, and we will do our best to help.

Your right to support

You have the right to use our complaints advocacy service if:

- You are an adult, young person, or child in Wales. And have a complaint about NHS services in Wales.

- You are an adult and have a concern about social services in Wales.

Our complaints advocacy service helps to make sure:

- People can complain when things go wrong.
- Services learn lessons from complaints.
- Services improve for everyone.

How we can help you

Our complaints advocacy service can:

- Help you to complain about care that the NHS or local authority gave you or paid for.

- Help you make a complaint for someone else. It could be for someone who has died.

- Tell you about other organisations that can help you.

- Answer your questions about how to complain and tell you your choices.

- Provide a step by step guide to making a complaint.

- Provide you with a trained complaints advocate. They can support you through the complaints process.

- We may be able to support you if you pay for social services yourself from a provider that is on the Care Inspectorate Wales register.

Things we can help you with

We can support you throughout the whole process.
We can help you:

Find information

For example, asking for a copy of your medical records.

Talk about your complaint

Sometimes you may be worried about the process of raising a concern.

It helps people to talk through the process with someone who knows it well.

Write letters

We can help you work out what you want to say.
And write letters..

Go to complaints meetings with you

Sometimes taking part in meetings can upset people. We can support you to prepare for meetings. And go to meetings with you to talk about your concerns.

When can we help you

We can help you at any point of the complaint process.

Raising your concern with the service provider

All local health and social care service providers have their own complaints procedures.

You must raise your concern with the service provider first. They will try and make things right.

If you are not sure who to talk to, we can help you find the right person to talk to.

We can help you, if:

- You cannot solve your complaint with the service provider informally.

- You would prefer to raise your concern formally.

You must raise your concern within 1 year of the issue happening. In special situations you may be able to complain after 1 year.

Making a complaint to the Public Services Ombudsman for Wales (PSOW)

You can usually complain to the PSOW if:

- you are not happy with how your complaint was dealt with
- or if you are not happy with the outcome of your complaint.

PSOW can look into complaints that were made within 1 year of the issue happening.

PSOW can look into complaints if the issue happened over 1 year ago, but you complained to the service provider within the year it happened.

If this is the case, you should complain to PSOW within 12 weeks of getting your response from the service provider.

Who we can help

We want to hear from as many people as possible in Wales.

We want to hear from people from all different backgrounds. And people who may not have the same chances to have a say.

We can help if you have additional needs.

We can help if:

- You have mental health issues.
- You have learning difficulties.
- You have sensory disabilities.
- You speak little or no English.
- Someone you loved died.
- You have any other needs.

Our complaints advocacy service is also available in Welsh.

What happens when you contact us

One of our team members will talk to you about your concern.

They will check to see what help you need.

They will check if you have any communication needs.

If we think we can help, we will explain our service to you.

If we cannot help, we will do our best to find someone who can.

A complaints advocate will contact you and make a plan.

This plan will include:

- What we have agreed we will do for you.

- How we will keep in touch with you.

Things we cannot do

There are some things our service cannot do.
We cannot:

- Make decisions on your behalf.

- Give an opinion about whether your complaint is reasonable.

- Offer medical opinions or give medical advice.

- Give advice about on-going care and treatment.

- Investigate concerns.

- Provide support with Continuing Healthcare or Individual Patient Funding Request Panels.

- Provide support at inquests. An inquest is when a judge and jury look into the facts of your complaint.

- Offer support such as bereavement support and counselling. Bereavement support helps people manage when someone they loved has died.

- Help you complain if you are under 18 years old. And your complaint is about social services.

- Work on complaints that are over 1 year old. Unless you have only just found out that you have something you can complain about. Or have some other strong reason for not raising your concerns sooner.

- Give legal advice or help with legal action.

- Help with complaints about treatment that was not paid for by the NHS or local authority.

- Get health or social care staff disciplined.

- Help you if you do not live in Wales.

If we cannot help, please do still contact us. We will always do our best to help you find someone who can.
